

New York City and bowling have long been synonymous. Some of the best bowlers in the universe live in Manhattan – some even sport averages of 140 or higher! But there’s never been a white-gloves, formalized process of determining the best...

...Until now.

This fall, twenty (20) co-ed teams of the best bowlers, the most efficient trash-talkers, and the meanest lane-scorchers east of Hoboken are going to come together to do battle. In the end, nineteen teams will be on the outside looking in, as one team hoists Molly’s Cup for the first time...wearing the coveted satin victory jackets.

Highlights:

- Teams of four, mixed doubles preferred. All dude teams will be handicapped.
- League play on either Tuesday or Wednesday nights – all schedules determined in advance.
- Performance enhancing drugs are encouraged.
- Hi/Lo scoring system – each match will have the potential for 2 points, with the winner of the high scores getting one point, and the winner of the low points getting the other.
- Additional points to be assessed in a yet-to-be-determined manner for extracurricular excellence.
- No fighting.
- Winning team gets to keep the four satin victory jackets for one year, and gets to sew their own designed team patch on the sleeve of each jacket. – Intimidation through wearing these jackets on league night in the following year is encouraged.
- League website/blog to track results and standings. Posts off all kinds are encouraged.
- Standings and “High-Rollers” ladder will also be posted weekly in Molly’s Snug on 85th and 2nd.

Team applications should be tendered to Molly Pitchers bar on 85th and 2nd Avenue, care of Kane O’Neill or Molly’s Cup. Teams will be selected on a first come, first served basis.
